Introducing Patricia’s new partners on the Integrative Recovery Resources “training team”

Timothy Harrington, co-founder and Chief Empowerment Officer of Sustainable Recovery, Inc.

In April of 2001, while living in his beat up Honda Civic in Malibu, he hit his personal bottom with the disease of addiction. When his last resort to bail him out refused to, he went to the last house on the block in Santa Monica, where he had his conversion moment while reading “How It Works” from the podium. In June 2002, at one year of recovery, Tim sought employment at Promises, Malibu. It was here he was introduced to the concept of continuing care. Tim soon created Sustainable Recovery, Inc. to provide interventions as well as custom, one-to-one confidential support to those transitioning from treatment to the home environment. He attended the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point from 83 to 89, majoring in communications.

He is trusted by high-profile clients, celebrities, professionals and treatment centers to provide support in the many different phases of recovery. His specialty is bringing recovery home and on the road; finding the resources to meet the individual needs of each client. Tim is a consistent reliable professional; he asserts enthusiasm for assisting those in need. He initiates a unique service which creates an environment of esteem building and personal growth. His 11 years’ experience working with treatment centers, clients and their families produces a stable foundation to initiate recovery sustainability. Sustainable Recovery, Inc. is an expert in providing the answers to bridging the gaps those with addictions face in traditional treatment plans. Tim says, “The words most frequently used to describe what we do include the following: identify, engage, encourage, motivate, share, express, enhance, orient, help, link, consult, monitor, transport, praise, enlist, support, organize, and advocate”. Tim is continually attending addiction and mental health conferences and classes and is always up to date on current addiction trends, treatments, medications and resources available to families.

Eric Johnston - Marketing and Operations Consultant

Eric has had the privilege of working for treatment centers in such capacities as Client Advisor, Sober Companion, Residential Director and Marketing Consultant, and has been trained as an Interventionist. This diverse experience has enabled Eric to develop relationships with a large network of treatment professionals in vast areas of specialization, treating a variety of people with complex, co-occurring issues. Eric is committed to developing strategies and solutions to help clients and their families get their lives back on track so they can live an authentic life with integrity, purpose and dignity.

Eric has been in recovery from drugs and alcohol for 19 years and has a BA in Liberal Studies from San Francisco State University. In addition to his treatment experience, Eric has over 15 years of Sales and Marketing experience in a variety of settings. Eric has worked for Fortune 500 corporations in Sales and Marketing and worked for smaller startups as a Director of Business Development, Regional Sales Manager and Director of Operations. His business approach is the same as how he looks at recovery...“Do what feels right, with the highest level of integrity, and everything else will fall into place.”
